Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 26 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Outbreaks of rain gradually clearing overnight. Locally chilly on hills.

This Evening and Tonight:
Outbreaks of rain gradually clearing northeastwards overnight, with most places becoming largely dry after midnight. However, there will be a lot of extensive low cloud, mist and fog in places. Turning locally chilly, especially on snow covered hills. Light winds. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Monday:
Low cloud, mist and fog patches will be slow to clear, perhaps lingering over higher ground throughout the day. Elsewhere, drier with some brighter spells developing. Feeling rather cold. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Tuesday, largely cloudy with some rain or showers. Drier start Wednesday, then a spell of heavy rain, becoming windy but milder. Thursday, windy but mild, further spells of rain likely.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.